ITINERARY - ITINERARY 2026

Day 1 Arrival Day

Check-in at the hotel is available from 16:00. If you are a member you can arrive at the house from 14:00. Enjoy a complimentary cream tea at 16:30 and meet other guests.

Day 2 Historic Glencoe

Option 1 - Hospital Lochan and the Glencoe Visitor Centre

Distance: 4.5 miles (7km)

Ascent: 550 feet (160m)

We'll begin with a walk up the peaceful main street of Glencoe Village passing the local museum and the Glencoe Massacre Monument – a memorial to the 30 members of Clan MacDonald murdered by government forces during the Jacobite Uprising in 1692. Crossing the old Bridge of Coe, we'll head through the woodlands that surround "Hospital Lochan", an 18th century manor house that served as the local hospital for many years. After a circuit of the lochan, we'll follow the Glencoe Orbital track to the National Trust for Scotland Visitor Centre where there's free time to check out fascinating exhibits on the history and wildlife of the area.

Option 2 - Hospital Lochan and the Clachaig Inn

Distance: 5.5 miles (8.5km)

Ascent: 850 feet (260m)

This walk follows the same route as option 1 to begin with but makes a complete circuit of the lochan to take in several superb viewpoints. On descending to the Bridge of Coe, we'll walk through a glen along the lower slopes of the Pap of Glencoe. We'll continue on the Glencoe Orbital track until we reach the Clachaig Inn - a former climber's hotel steeped in mountaineering history.

Option 3 - Glencoe Lochan's and Signal Rock

Distance: 8 miles (13km)

Ascent: 1,200 feet (360m)

Starting at the National Trust for Scotland Visitor Centre, we'll have time to check out the exhibits that give a fascinating insight into the wildlife and history of the area and what we will see on the walk. We'll initially follow the same route as option 2 but before reaching the Clachaig Inn, we'll turn right to visit Signal Rock. This small but distinctive summit amongst the trees is reputed to be the place where the signal was made to start the infamous Glencoe Massacre.

Day 3 Nevis Range

Option 1 - Old Inverlochry Castle and Gleann Domhanaidh to Nevis Range Gondola

Distance: 4.5 miles (7km)

Ascent: 550 feet (160m)

From Fort William we follow the bed of a former railway line, continuing on good paths and gravel roads through the forest towards the ski centre and Nevis Range Mountain Gondola. The gondola carries us up to a height of 650m for us to enjoy impressive views of Lochaber. We descend with the gondola to then join our transfer back to Alltshellach.

Option 2 - Gleann Domhanaidh and Gondola to Viewpoint

Distance: 5.5 miles (8.5km)

Ascent: 650 feet (200m)

We take an old railway track just on the outskirts of Fort William to Inverlochy Castle, stopping along the way to find out about the 15th and 17th century battles fought here. Ascending through the forest we reach the ski centre at the foot of Ben Nevis. After riding the Nevis Range Mountain Gondola, we'll take an easy path north to the viewpoint of Sgurr Fhinniosgaig. Thanks to the far-reaching views, this route gives the feeling of a high-level walk for much less effort. We descend via the gondola to the bottom station, where we'll meet our driver for the journey back to the house.

Option 3 - Gondola to Viewpoint, Gleann Domhanaidh to Fort William

Distance: 7.5 miles (12km)

Ascent: 750 feet (240m)

Following the gondola ride, we'll take a long-but-easy path west to the viewpoint of Meall Beag for extensive views over both Loch Eil and Loch Linnhe. Then, descending through the forest and along an old railway track, we'll pass by the Ben Nevis whisky distillery before continuing to ancient Inverlochy Castle. Heading across the fields where the battles of Inverlochy were fought, we'll skirt along the shore of the River Lochy Estuary and finish in Fort William where, if time allows, you're free to explore.

Day 4 Free Day - Scottish Highlands

Day 5 Ballachulish

Option 1 - St John's Church and Gleann a Chaolais

Distance: 5.5 miles (8.5km)

Ascent: 1,000 feet (300m)

Starting at St John's Church on the south side of Loch Leven, we'll take a forest road that rises gently through the trees covering the lower slopes of Beinn a Bheithir – the mountain that can be seen from the windows of Alltshellach. We'll gain sufficient height for views up to the peak of Sgorr Dhonuill before descending into Gleann a Chaolais. Leaving the forest, we'll pass the new community owned hydro-electric scheme. From the Ballachulish Bridge look eastwards for over Loch Leven to see the first peak of the Aonach Eagach ridge in the distance and the Pap of Glencoe to its left. The woodlands of "Hospital Lochan" are at its base.

Option 2 - Leitir Mhor and the Murder Cairn

Distance: 4 miles (6km)

Ascent: 500 feet (140m)

This walk visits several locations associated with the infamous Appin Murder – the 1752 assassination of Clan Campbell tacksman, Colin Roy Campbell, possibly in retaliation for his role in supporting the failed 1745 Jacobite rebellion. We'll walk up the lane towards Leitir Mhor and along a path to the murder cairn which marks the spot where Campbell was killed. Following the former Connel to Ballachulish railway line, we'll enjoy views over Loch Linnie and, with luck, catch sight of seabirds, seals, or otters. Leaving the cycleway, we'll continue to Ballachulish Bridge and visit the memorial to James of the Glen – the man wrongly accused and executed for the murder of Colin Roy Campbell.

Option 3 - Cuil Bay and Duror

Distance: 8 miles (13km)

Ascent: 450 feet (140m)

Starting from the seaside at Cuil Bay, we'll have time to enjoy the views over Loch Linnhe to the Isle of Mull. Look out over the rocky shores and sea lochs that characterise Western Scotland, before an easy walk through the former crofting area of Cuil brings us to Duror. Walking north on the cycleway through fields and woodland to Kentallen Bay. Here, the cycleway heads uphill to a viewpoint with information boards on the special geology of the area. Descending to Kentallen village, we'll rejoin the old railway line and pass by Leitir Mhor to Gleann a Chaolais. We'll return to Alltshellach via the James of the Glen monument and the Ballachulish Bridge.

Day 6 Achnacarry Day

Option 1 - Waterfalls to Achnacarry and Gairloch

Distance: 4 miles (6.5km)

Ascent: 400 feet (120m)

This option begins with a visit to Neptune's Staircase, a dramatic flight of eight locks on the Caledonian Canal in the shadow of Ben Nevis, Britain's tallest mountain. From here, we'll travel by coach to the large waterfall Eas Chia-Aig, the starting point of our walk. Crossing the bridge over the River Arkaig, where it flows out of the enormous Loch Arkaig, we'll explore Achnacarry Castle. This Scottish baronial home of the Clan Cameron was destroyed by the Redcoat British Army during the 1745 Jacobite rebellion. However, it was rebuilt in 1802 and later housed the Commando Basic Training Centre for British Special Forces in WWII. We'll continue via the unusual St. Ciaran's Church, following much of the route on the Great Glen Way. Our journey then takes us along a forest path on the shore of Loch Lochy, with chances to spot canoes, boats, and ships crossing the Caledonian Canal. We'll end our walk at Gairloch.

Option 2 - Loy Bridge to Achnacarry and Waterfalls

Distance: 8 miles (13km)

Ascent: 700 feet (220m)

We'll start by crossing under the Caledonian Canal through the 260ft-long masonry conduit built around 1810 to provide farm access. In storm conditions the tunnel can be wet with excess water from the River Loy but is normally dry. There is no lighting, so a torch is advised to avoid puddles. After just 2.3 miles of easy walking on the canal tow path we'll reach Gairloch Canal Bridge. From here, we'll follow the same route as options 1 and 2 but extend the walk to cross the River Arkaig and continue upstream through the woods. Crossing back over via a foot bridge we'll pass Achnacarry House and continue past Loch Arkaig to the waterfalls.

Option 3 - Gairloch to Achnacarry and Waterfalls

Distance: 6 miles (9.5km)

Ascent: 650 feet (200m)

Initially following the same route as option 1, we'll visit St Ciaran's Church, before taking the less frequented path through fields and forest. We'll pass the River Arkaig and the now disused walled garden to reach Achnacarry where there'll be time for a visit to the museum before making our way on to Loch Arkaig and the waterfall.

Day 7 Dunstaffnage Castle and Oban

Option 1 - Dunbeg to Oban

Distance: 4 miles (6km)

Ascent: 400 feet (120m)

Starting with a visit to the historic Dunstaffnage Castle, we'll take the well-made path from Dunbeg across open moorland to the coast at Ganavan Sands - arguably Oban's best beach. Following the coast south on minor roads and field paths, we'll pass Dunollie Castle and round a headland by the war memorial. Here, the whole of Oban Bay including the harbour and town comes into view with McCaigs Tower above. After admiring the ferries coming and going to the islands, we'll walk along the seafront promenade past the cathedral, and enjoy time to explore the piers, cafés, shops, and attractions.

Option 2 - Dunstaffnage to Oban and McCaig's Tower

Distance: 5 miles (8.5km)

Ascent: 750 feet (220m)

After our visit to the historic Dunstaffnage Castle, we'll walk through the woods to the nearby beach. Following paths below the sea cliffs, there's a short-but-steep ascent to the viewpoint at Aonadh Beag where we'll enjoy panoramas over Appin, Lismore, and Mull. Undulating moorland paths take us to Ganavan Sands where we'll continue into Oban. From the North Pier, we'll turn steeply up narrow streets to reach McCaigs Tower for near bird's-eye views of the town and harbour.

Option 3 - Ledaig to Oban via Connel Bridge and McCaig's Tower

Distance: 8 miles (12.5km)

Ascent: 750 feet (220m)

This walk begins at Ledaig shingle beach. Crossing Loch Etive via the Connel Bridge, we can look out over the currents and tidal flows that can be seen at all ebb tides. We'll then head toward Oban through quiet countryside on minor and unsurfaced roads. Descending into Oban allows us to approach McCaig's Tower from behind and get the full effect of the spectacular views of the town that appear almost suddenly. Finally, we'll make an easy descent to the seafront for free time to explore.

Day 8 Departure Day

Enjoy a leisurely breakfast before making your way home.

Daily Walk Options

Easier Walks

Walk at a relaxed pace, often spending time at places of interest en-route. Walking experience isn't necessary as distances are quite short and gradients generally easy.

Medium Walks

Walks follow well-defined paths, though often in hilly or upland areas, or along rugged coastal footpaths. These may be rough or steep in sections and will require reasonable fitness.

Accommodation

Alltshellach, Glencoe

For a combination of mountain views, olde-worlde charm, and somewhere comfortable to sleep, this stately Scottish house in North Ballachulish has an enviable setting right on the shores of Loch Leven. You can also spend time in Fort William and ride the Hogwarts-esque Jacobite steam train as it makes its way through beauty spots such as Loch Eil, Glenfinnan, and Arisaig to the fishing port of Mallaig.

Reached by car ferry from Oban or Lochaline, this Inner Hebridean island is home to Tobermory – the colourful town featured in children's TV series, Balamory. Don't miss Duart Castle, the ancestral home of Clan Maclean – one of the oldest Highlands families.

Isle of Lismore
